Open access

All articles published by Journal of Cancer Stem Cell Research are made freely and permanently accessible online immediately upon publication, without subscription charges or registration barriers. Authors of articles published in Journal of Cancer Stem Cell Research retain the copyright.

Open access publishing allows free distribution of and access to published articles. The author retains copyright of their work with a Creative Commons attribution license, so all articles are made freely available to the widest audience possible.

The benefits are:

- All articles are free to read, copy, distribute, and use (with attribution)
- Author retains copyright - not the publisher
- Complies with self-archiving mandates

Authors who are US government employees or are prevented from being copyright holders for similar reasons, Trends Ahead Scientific Journals can accommodate non-standard copyright lines. Please contact us if further information is needed.

Article-processing charges

Journal of Cancer Stem Cell Research levies an article-processing charge of US $1,500 for each article accepted for publication. We routinely waive charges for authors from low-income countries. For other countries, article-processing charge waivers or discounts are granted on a case-by-case basis to authors with insufficient funds. Authors can request a waiver or discount during the submission process.

The full text of all articles is deposited in digital archives around the world to guarantee long-term digital preservation. You can also access all articles published by Trends Ahead Scientific Journals on website of Journal of Cancer Stem Research.
